Ford cuts cops a break

► Fire Chief Bill Stewart has said a 10 per cent budget cut would force him to lay off 400 firefighters and endanger public safety ► Following Police Chief Bill Blair's example, he may now dare Ford to call his bluff

Mayor Rob Ford has given the police service a budget break he has not given the TTC, fire department or any other city department or agency.

For 2012, Ford and city manager Joe Pennachetti have demanded a 10 per cent budget cut from every city entity's 2011 budget. But Ford endorsed police Chief Bill Blair's request for a 0.6 per cent increase over the 2011 police budget — $936 million, up from $930 million.

No other city entity has been permitted to begin its budget exercise at such a favourable starting point.

The police service, long a political third rail, is far from the only entity facing rising costs.

The TTC, for example, identified $39 million in new expenses for 2012, thanks to increases in salaries, energy costs and vehicle maintenance costs. Yet it was forced to come up with a 2012 budget that assumed the city would slash its annual subsidy by 10 per cent, or $46 million.

"It's certainly sending a message ... that 10 per cent can't necessarily be achieved — and won't necessarily be required."

COUN. JANET DAVIS, A FORD CRITIC

That budget included a major reduction in bus service and a cut of 1,000 employees.

The TTC chair, Ford ally Coun. Karen Stintz, would not answer directly Thursday when asked if the city should have granted the TTC the same latitude.

"We were all given a direction by the mayor's office, and we were advised that our subsidy was going to be cut by 10 per cent. And we had to figure out our budget within that constraint," Stintz said. "The difference is, we're an agency that can charge a user fee. Obviously we wouldn't have made up the entire (lost) subsidy with higher fares, but we are in a different situation than the police." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Research uncovers why bedbugs die hard

Why are bedbugs so hard to kill? A team of researchers may have unlocked a secret that will help crush the bloodsucking pests for good.

In a study published this week in a U.S. science journal, researchers at Virginia Tech uncovered a genetic mechanism bedbugs use to resist the powerful insecticides meant to kill them.

The finding comes as Toronto and urban centres across the continent grapple with increasing bedbug infestations.

Bedbugs were largely eradicated in North America by the mid-20th century, but have come back with a vengeance in the past decade or so, having developed resistance to the insecticides used to control them.

Resistant strains of bedbugs, sometimes called superbugs, have special enzymes that break down insecticides and make them harmless, the study found.

Occupy Toronto stands firm

► Protesters face the gloomy weather with a sunny disposition

Members of Occupy Toronto to say their resolve is strong and not the least bit dampened by Wednesday's rainstorm.

While St. James Park was muddy and disheveled the morning after, the dozens of protesters who have been camping in the Adelaide-Jarvis streets area square since the weekend remained sunnily disposed as they geared up for Saturday's big rally at Nathan Phillips Square.

Just before noon, Octavian Cadabeschi inveigled a woman named Delfina to head over to Kensington Market to hand out flyers about the rally. But since this ad hoc group isn't big on hierarchy, his entreaty was a gentle "Hey Delphi, can you do this?"

"We want to get the numbers up on Saturday," said Cadabeschi, 30, who was carrying out the task on behalf of the Action

"It's an incredibly supportive environment, and that has encouraged me to stay."

JESSE NAIMAN, WEB DEVELOPER

Committee. Like other diehards in the group, he said they are "in for the long haul." When his history studies resume in January, Cadabeschi said, he plans to schedule his St. James Park duties around classes.

Jesse Naiman said he was good for another five days living in the park. But not because of fatigue or the weather — that's when the 33-year-old web developer starts a new job in North York.

"I will be coming back after my work, because this is important," he said.

More arrests expected in Mark Moore case

► Accused serial killer suspected of links to other crimes, police say ► Detective expects others to be arrested soon

Police are investigating whether accused killer Mark Moore was linked to other homicides in the city and expect more arrests in the case.

Det. Sgt. Hank Idsinga said he expects several suspects to be arrested on charges that include aiding and abetting, accessory after the fact, obstructing justice and obstructing police.

"This is a very active case," Idsinga said.

Moore, who was already in custody on shooting and drug charges, was taken from the Toronto (Don) Jail early Wednesday and brought to court to face 54 other charges, including four counts of first-degree murder for the brazen shootings in 2010.

► Mark Moore

Moore proclaimed himself a gangster, often wearing the red colours of the Crips gang, but he was not a gang member, police say.

He also appeared in a YouTube hip-hop video, flaunting jewelry and large wads of cash.

Detectives say they have strong cases built on forensics work done at the shooting scenes as well as witness accounts.

As part of the investigation into Moore, police say they broke up a drug-trafficking ring using agencies, including New York City police and the New York port authority.

They say two 9 mm guns and a .45 gun were used in the murders and are still unaccounted for.

Moore is alleged to have begun on June 1, 2010, committing several drive-by shootings before turning to homicide. Most victims had no link to Moore or to gang culture, police say.

Zoo elephants could soon be packing trunk for new home

- Toronto Zoo decided in May to close popular elephant exhibit
- Said it's too expensive to properly upgrade the animals' habitat

Nearly six months after the Toronto Zoo decided to close its elephant exhibit and send three aging female pachyderms elsewhere, a new home for them could be decided soon, an official said yesterday.

Talks are going well with a U.S. counterpart interested in taking Toka, Thika and Iringa, said Bill Rapley, the zoo's executive director of conservation, education and wildlife.

"There is real good potential evolving with one particular facility," he said, adding that if discussions go on as hoped, "it's the best solution."

Rapley would not identify the zoo for fear of jeopardizing sensitive ► Thika, one of the Toronto Zoo's three female elephants, may soon find a new home in the United States.

discussions. But it is accredited by the Association of Zoos and Aquariums.

His comments came after a meeting of the zoo board at which a member of the watchdog group Zoocheck Canada urged action to send the elephants to the PAWS sanctuary in California, which is not AZA-accredited.

Zoocheck director Julie Woodyear reiterated the offer made by her group and their "donor," retired television personality Bob Barker, to pay for the elephants' relocation to the sanctuary. The estimated cost would be $100,000 to $300,000.

The board had voted to look first for a suitable AZA-accredited zoo, in part because such organizations operate in a transparent way.

The PAWS elephant sanctuary isn't an AZA member because it isn't run like a zoo, but rather as a retirement home for old or ailing animals. Also, PAWS doesn't believe in breeding elephants in captivity, as do traditional zoos.

Meanwhile, the zoo board also passed its 2012 operating budget of $45 million, which includes an $11-million subsidy from the city of Toronto.

Let's be Facebook friends: Students

► Survey finds more than 60% high schoolers see no problem connecting with teachers on social media site

Most high school students think it is OK to be Facebook friends with their teachers, says a new province-wide survey of teens.

But Ontario parents, who were also polled, don't agree, saying such online connections aren't "professional or acceptable."

Of the 7,112 high school students who took part in the survey by the Ontario Student Trustees' Association, 61 per cent said it's acceptable to "connect through social media" with their teachers, with 39 per cent saying it's not.

"Many of the students who included comments say they believe that teachers should have the right to connect with whomever they like," says the survey, to be released Friday.

"They also say that by being allowed to connect with their teachers outside of school, it helps them to bond and form a deeper connection with educators, which could potentially help students enjoy school more."

Earlier this year, the Ontario College of Teachers cautioned educators about using social media, recommending they neither accept nor invite students to be "friends" on Facebook.

Parents "often argued there is a very thin line between appropriate and inappropriate behaviour on these sites and that there were serious boundary issues when students and teachers interacted through social media," says a parallel survey by advocacy group People for Education. Some 58 per cent of parents polled opposed such online connections.

Health inspector closes Pusateri's location

Toronto Public Health has closed the Avenue Road and Lawrence location of upscale grocery store Pusateri's due to poor sanitation and pest infestation.

"It is up to the operator to improve their services and arrange a reinspection with the public health inspector," Toronto Public Health spokeswoman Rishma Govani confirmed to the Toronto Star by email Thursday afternoon.

Pusateri's general manager John Mastroianni, however, said the store was closed for "general maintenance."

"It's not rodents," Mastroianni said, repeatedly insisting that the issue was equipment related and "general maintenance."

Govani said specifically that the closure was due to poor sanitation and pest infestation.

The inspection arose as a result of a public complaint, she said, adding the pest infestation included rats as well as cockroaches.

The inspection occurred at 10:30 a.m. Thursday morning, Govani said.

When confronted again with the confirmation from Toronto Public Health that the store was in fact closed due to poor sanitation and pests, Mastroianni admitted cockroaches had been found in the store.

"Pest infestation is all part of maintenance," he said, explaining his earlier insistence that the store was closed as a result of "general maintenance."

A statement from Pusateri's said that staff hoped to have the store up and running again within a couple of days. In the meantime, their two other stores are still open for business.

Liberals vow to work with Opposition

► Reduced cabinet includes 22 ministers, down from 28 ► There are no Opposition cabinet ministers

The new Liberal cabinet will reach out to the Opposition to ensure a working minority parliament but will not tolerate divisive politics, Premier Dalton McGuinty said Thursday.

McGuinty vowed to listen to all ideas as his new cabinet was sworn in, but also issued a strong warning against "those who seek to divide Ontarians at a time when we need to be strong."

He later defended the comments, denying he was setting a combative tone as the other parties sought to work together.

"I've always said that," McGuinty said. "But I also said that we will extend a hand to anybody who has any good ideas and we will not assess an idea based on its origin, but rather on what it does for us."

The premier is leading Ontario's first minority government in 26 years after falling one seat short of a majority. The Opposition parties welcomed McGuinty's softer approach but said the Liberals missed an opportunity to show voters they understood their call for change by appointing the same ministers to their new, leaner cabinet.

On the inside

- McGuinty cabinet has six fewer ministers, fewer women and no new faces.
- Premier opted for experienced hands in the face of potential economic crisis.
- Deb Matthews was kept as health minister and Laurel Broton was promoted to Education.
- Former attorney general Chris Bentley has moved to Energy.
- Finance Minister Dwight Duncan will also take on role as deputy premier.

"These are the same people who got us into this mess. They are not going to get us out of this mess," said Progressive Conservative Peter Shurman.

Joke's on you, women are funny too: Study

This is no joke.

Men are not that much funnier than women after all, according to a psychology study from the University of California, San Diego Division of Social Sciences.

If they are, it's only by a small margin, which the study says dispels the myth — likely started by men — that women are not funny and are actually dour in nature.

The study's first author,

Laura Mickes, a post-doctoral researcher in the UC San Diego Department of Psychology and a PhD graduate in the same department, said she was "always puzzled about this stereotype." The final straw came when one of her students rated her and declared: "She's not funny."

"That really triggered it. I thought that's interesting because I'm not a comedian ... but I know other students think I'm funny," she told the Toronto Star Thursday.

Yet "my male colleagues don't get that" kind of negative rating, she said.

Back in 2008 she and a male colleague set out to determine once and for all who gets more laughs.

"Sad for the guys," co-author and professor Nicholas Christenfeld said in a statement, "who think that by being funny they will impress the ladies, but really just impress other men who want to impress the ladies."

Mickes said he was "chagrined" while "my male co-authors were delighted" to find that women weren't funnier than men, even if it was ever so slightly.

"I have such funny female friends, my mother, my sister. So in my whole life I have an opposite bias that women really are funny and I always thought equally so," she said.

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICES

A funny study

- The study, published in the Psychonomic Bulletin & Review, tested funniness using The New Yorker's cartoon caption contest.
- Men scored slightly funnier than women — by 0.11 points on a 5-point scale. About 90 per cent of the participants agreed that men are funnier.
- For the experiment, 32 undergraduate students —

16 of each sex — wrote 640 captions for The New Yorker in 45 minutes.

- For the project's second phase, 34 male and 47 female students rated the captions in five rounds.
- Christopher Hitchens started a firestorm in Vanity Fair in 2007 by writing "Why Women Aren't Funny." He concluded that funny men had an evolutionary advantage over women.

Tims turns wasteful cups into takeout trays

JENNIFER TAPLIN
IN HALIFAX

Don't worry if you're emotionally attached to your Tim Hortons cup because you'll see it again as a takeout tray.

On Thursday the Canadian coffee institution announced its plans in diverting the mounds of paper cups away from the landfill. Some municipalities can recycle or compost the cups, but in many areas they fill garbages.

Tim Hortons and Scotia Recycling worked out a program two years ago to collect the cups and ship them to Hantsport-based paper manufacturer CKF Inc. to make them into trays. The program is now in all of the province's 156 restaurants.

But, it's up to customers to put the cups in restaurant recycling units.

Crews restore power

Hydro One crews were out Thursday restoring service to almost 15,000 customers across southern and central Ontario. Heavy winds and strong rain rolled through parts of the province Wednesday night, knocking down power lines. The utility's website showed 3,500 homes and businesses near Orleans without power. More than 1,400 customers were also without electricity in the Huntsville area.

Groups demand Bush's arrest

► Activist says former commander-in-chief sullied America's reputation

A couple hundred raucous protesters are shouting for the arrest of George Bush in Surrey, B.C., where the former president is slated to speak to a business forum along with fellow former president Bill Clinton.

Several dozen Mounties have closed off the road leading to the hotel where the forum is being held.

The protesters represent several different groups, including students from a local college and Amnesty International — a group that asked Ottawa last week to arrest Bush when he crosses the border.

Amnesty, along with other activists and human rights organizations, say the former commander-in-chief should be tried under Canadian and international law for war crimes, including torture.

Speaking over a megaphone, activist Chris Bennett says Bush and his "war machine" are responsible for sullying America's reputation.

While Bush is on Canadian soil, a representative of the Canadian Centre for International Justice was planning to meet a justice of the peace seeking approval of a draft indictment against Bush, alleging he was behind the torture of four men who were detained in Afghanistan and Guantanamo Bay.

The group said it had 4,000 pages of documents supporting its case for trying Bush under the Canadian criminal code.

Dick Cheney, who was Bush's vice president, has vigorously defended the administration's interrogation techniques, claiming they saved hundreds of thousands of lives.

CANAL SLAYINGS ABOUT HONOUR,

► Three sisters, accused's first wife, found inside car submerged in lock ► Possible motive laid out in court

Days after the bodies of three teenaged sisters and their father's first wife were found in a car at the bottom of a canal, their father — who, along with the girls' mother and brother, is accused of killing them — was recorded saying, "There is nothing more valuable than our honour."

Tooba Mohammad Yahya, 41, her husband Mohammad Shafia, 58, and their son, Hamed Mohammad Shafia, 20, all of Montreal, are each charged with four counts of first-degree murder.

They have pleaded not guilty.

Three teenage Shafia sisters, Zainab, 19, Sahar, 17, and Geeti, 13, along with Shafia's first wife, Rona Amir Mohammad, 50, were found dead June 30, 2009 in the Rideau Canal.

In conversations between the three accused, secretly recorded by police after the deaths, Mohammad talks about how the girls betrayed their family by having boyfriends.

"Even if they hoist me up onto the gallows, nothing is more dear to me than my honour," Mohammad said, according to Crown attorney Laurie Lacelle. "Let's leave our destiny to God, and may God never make me, you or your mother honourless ... There is nothing more valuable than our honour."

Lacelle gave the jury an overview of the case in her opening address Thursday, and told them an expert will testify about honour killings, and how in extreme cases, killing can be seen in some cultures as a way to restore honour.

Ten days before the girls were found dead, a Google search was conducted on a laptop registered to Shafia and used by his son Hamed, Lacelle said. The words entered were, "where to commit a murder."

CROWN CLAIMS

SEAN KILPATRICK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Family members no strangers to problems

The family, originally from Afghanistan, was in turmoil before the deaths. The eldest daughter, Zainab Shafia, had run away and both of the other two girls had repeatedly told authorities they were afraid and wanted to leave the family home.

Rona Amir Mohammad was Shafia's first wife, but he married Yahya when it became apparent Mohammad couldn't have children.

She helped raise the children and loved them dearly, Crown attorney Laurie Lacelle said, but she wrote in a diary that Yahya treated her poorly and Shafia beat her. She wanted to leave, but told family members that she was afraid if she left Shafia would kill her, Lacelle said.

There is evidence that one of the family's cars pushed the Nissan Sentra into the locks where it was found.

The cause of death was drowning, but it's impossible to tell if they drowned in the canal or somewhere else, Lacelle said.

Moderate bruising was found on the crowns of all the victims' heads except Sahar, she said.

Gadhafi's death resonates with Lockerbie victims' kin

For decades, Libyan dictator Moammar Gadhafi was seen as an international villain, but for Susan Cohen he was a personal enemy, one she read up on daily for more than 20 years.

Her daughter was one of the 270 people killed when Pam Am Flight 103 was blown out of the sky by a terrorist bomb over the Scottish town of Lockerbie in 1988, allegedly at Gadhafi's behest.

"This was sort of like Dracula: Is Dracula really dead?" Cohen said. "It's great now that we know. I didn't want him to go to a trial. When you have a tyrant, a monster like him, we're all better off with him dead."

Many families of the attack victims had longed for the dictator's downfall.

"I never thought I would see the day this man, this coward, would no longer be part of the world population," said Bert Ammerman, whose brother Tom died in the bombing.

The packed courtroom was silent as a jury found Sommit Luangpakham guilty of all 10 charges relating to him crashing a van into five cyclists on March Road in Ottawa, on July 19, 2009.

Afterwards, some of the victims spoke for the first time since the trial began. "The end of the trial has lifted a great weight from my heart that my family and I have been bearing since my friends and I were struck down by the criminal negligence of one man, a man who has not shown any remorse for his ac-

Luangpakham was not charged with criminal negligence, but five counts of dangerous driving causing bodily harm and fleeing the scene of an accident causing bodily harm. He is also facing a civil suit from the cyclists.

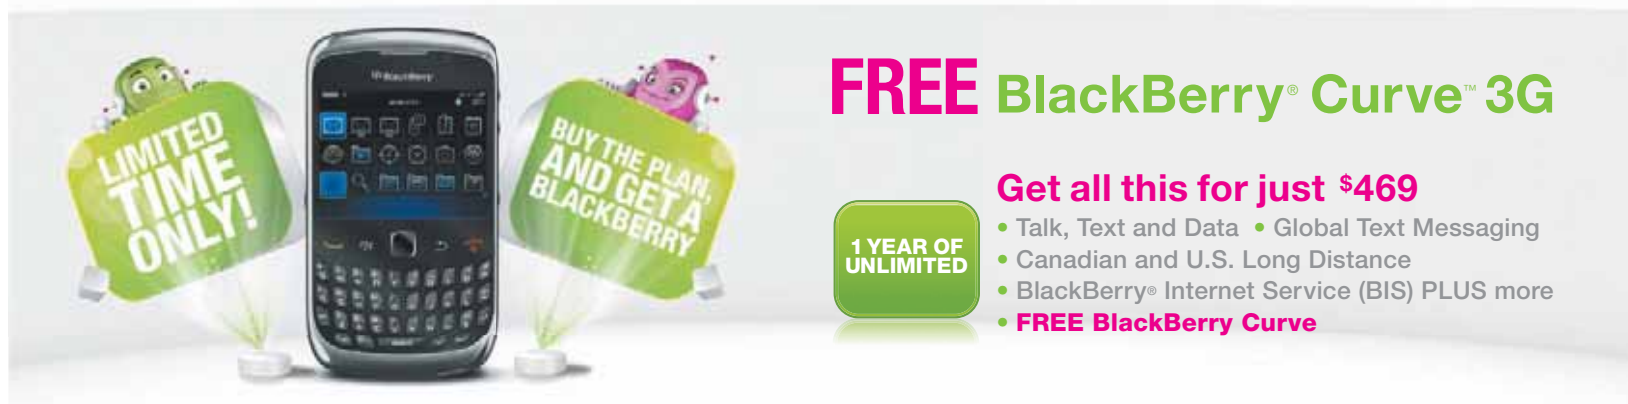

Luangpakham didn't dispute the crash happened,

"Hopefully this verdict will in some way help them all in dealing with what happened on that morning."

but his lawyer argued the 47-year-old fell asleep at the wheel briefly and only noticed after the crash he'd hit something and didn't stop because he thought he'd hit a small post.

Crown lawyer Matthew Humphreys argued that it would have been impossible for him to miss the "bodies bouncing off, into and over" his van.

Turkey steps up Kurdish offensive

► Military operation follows deadly attacks by rebels on eight targets ► Attacks fuel nationalist sentiment

About 10,000 elite Turkish soldiers took part in a ground offensive against Kurdish rebels in southeastern Turkey and across the border in Iraq on Thursday, making it the nation's largest attack on the insurgents in more than three years, the military said.

The offensive began Wednesday after Kurdish rebels carried out raids near the Turkey-Iraq border that killed 24 Turkish soldiers and wounded 18, the insurgents' deadliest one-day attacks against the military since the mid-1990s.

The military said in a statement Thursday that 22 battalions, or about 10,000

NTV television said most of the troops were believed to be in Iraq. The television said Turkish warplanes flew dozens of bombing sorties out of a military base in the southeastern city of Diyarbakir on Thursday.

Gadhafi death buries regime

Dragged from hiding in a drainage pipe, a wounded Moammar Gadhafi raised his hands and begged revolutionary fighters: "Don't kill me, my sons." Within an hour, he was dead, but not before jubilant Libyans had vented decades of hatred by pulling the eccentric dictator's hair and parading his bloodied body on the hood of a truck.

The death Thursday of Gadhafi, two months after he was driven from power and into hiding, decisively buries the nearly 42-year regime that had turned the oil-rich country into an international pariah and his own personal fiefdom.

It also thrusts Libya into a new age in which its transitional leaders must overcome deep divisions and rebuild nearly all its institutions from scratch to achieve dreams of democracy.

"We have been waiting for this historic moment for a long time. Moammar Gadhafi has been killed," Prime Minister Mahmoud Jibril said in the capital of Tripoli. "I would like to call on Libyans to put aside the grudges and only say one word, which is Libya, Libya, Libya."

Other leaders have fallen in the Arab Spring uprisings, but Gadhafi, 69, is the first to be killed. He was killed in his hometown of Sirte, where revolutionary fighters overwhelmed the last of his loyalist supporters Thursday after weeks of heavy battles.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Precise circumstances of Gadhafi's death remain unclear ▶ Metro pieces together what we believe to be the final moments leading to his death

1. NTC fighters' attack on Sirte

Following a 90-minute battle Thursday morning, fighters said with the help of NATO airstrikes they had taken control of Sirte, ending a two-month siege and eliminating the last important holdout post for troops loyal to the deposed leader.

Reports suggest that Gadhafi along with key loyalists tried to flee east toward Misrata as the last battle was ongoing.

2. Rebels find Gadhafi in pipe

The Colonel's convoy was reportedly ambushed, with Gadhafi managing to flee.

The ousted leader was located some time later in a storm-water drainpipe.

"Don't shoot, don't shoot!" — the apparent words of the Colonel as he pleaded with NTC rebels for their mercy, according to fighter Mohammed Al Bibi.

3. Gadhafi meets his end

There is uncertainty how exactly Gadhafi died.

An alleged eyewitness said that he saw the Colonel being shot in the abdomen.

Grisly mobile phone video footage appears to show a bloodied Gadhafi being roughly handled.

Other footage exclusive to Al Jazeera shows Gadhafi's shirtless body on the ground.

4. NTC confirm Gadhafi death

Following word that Gadhafi had initially been captured, confirmation of the Colonel's death was made official. "We announce to the world that Moammar Gadhafi has been killed at the hands of the revolutionaries," Abdul Hafiz Ghoga, vice chairman of the NTC said. Reports have surfaced that Gadhafi's corpse is at a mosque in Misrata. ● ANTHONY JOHNSTON

Harper hails end of Libyan dictator

Canada's military mission in Libya is expected to end by early November following Thursday's death of Moammar Gadhafi.

The dictator's demise marked the end of four decades of erratic and brutal rule that saw world leaders both engage and cast out the leader of the oil-rich nation before he was finally driven from power by his own people.

"The Libyan people can finally turn the page on 42 years of vicious oppression and continue their journey toward a better future," Prime Minister Stephen Harper said.

But their actions in the final moments of Gadhafi's life are now under scrutiny with observers concerned revolutionaries may have meted out the same kind of violent justice that charac-

Amnesty International said an independent and impartial inquiry was needed into the circumstances surrounding Gadhafi's death. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cop: We knew of hacking in '02

► British force accused of ignoring allegations to protect its relationship with newspapers

Authorities knew that Rupert Murdoch's News of the World tabloid had hacked into the phone of murdered teenager Milly Dowler nine years before the scandal over the practice exploded, an English police chief said Thursday. Surrey Police Chief Constable Mark Rowley acknowledged that his force knew as far back as April 2002 that someone linked to the News of the World had accessed Dowler's voicemail, although he said it wasn't yet clear why no one was prosecuted over the practice.

He said an inquiry team

"is currently looking into why this was the case."

The disclosure that police were aware that the girl's phone had been hacked and took no action may raise new questions about how police have handled the scandal investigation. Particular attention has focused on the relationship between News Corp. and British police.

► Oil and gas fields in Tripoli.

Libya oil won't flow quickly, experts say

It will still be several months before Libya can export as much oil as it did before it descended into civil war this year. But the killing of Moammar Gadhafi reduces the chance that violence will get in the way as Libya cranks up production again.

Analysts predict the country can produce 600,000 barrels per day by the end of the year and 1.6 million by the second half of next year. By then, oil, depending on where it is traded, could fall $10 US to $25 US per barrel, says Michael Lynch, president of Strategic Energy & Economic Research.

But getting back to regular oil production could prove difficult for Libya. Its government is still in its infancy. It has no parliament and few remaining national institutions.

And infighting could spark a second uprising similar to the insurgency in Iraq, Barclays Capital analyst Helima Croft says.

One major issue is figuring out how to divide oil revenue among more than 100 tribes in the country.

International companies will also have to be reassured that a new government won't try to drastically change contracts that have already been signed. And they want to be assured that their oil-field engineers will be safe.

Exotic farm owner was deep in debt

The owner of a U.S. exotic animal farm who released dozens of tigers, lions and others beasts from their cages in a final act, shot himself to death and then was bitten on his head, his body then dragged a short distance by one of his own animals, a sheriff said Thursday.

Records show that

Terry Thompson was deep in debt. He and his wife owed at least $68,000 in unpaid income and property taxes. It was the latest piece of the mystery over why a man known to bottle-feed his animals when they were babies left them to almost-certain death.

A photo showing the remains of tigers, bears and lions lined up and scattered in an open field went viral and provoked anger and sadness on social networking sites.

Sarkozy gushes about baby Giulia

► Sarkozy absent for daughter's birth ► Jetted off to Frankfurt for last-minute eurozone debt-crisis meeting

Proud papa Nicolas Sarkozy, the first French president to have a baby in office, says he and wife Carla Bruni-Sarkozy feel "a very profound happiness" over the birth of their baby girl — the couple's first child together.

After a day of keeping the nation guessing, Bruni-Sarkozy announced the baby's name on her website Thursday night: Giulia.

Privacy was the guiding principle of the baby's hush-hush birth Wednesday. Police outside the maternity clinic kept journalists at bay, and it was only Sarkozy's frequent visits that tipped the news media off. The tight control appears to be part of a strat-

Shoot then focus with new camera

► Lytro grew out of company founder Ren Ng's PhD thesis in 2007 ► Experiments began in the mid-1990s

CONTRIBUTED

A new image-capturing device introduced Wednesday by a group of Stanford University-educated tech-heads changes everything we know about taking pictures.

The photographer using a Lytro camera focuses the shot after taking the picture, not before.

Ever since Louis Daguerre began taking pictures by focusing a beam of light on a receptive surface, cameras have behaved like our own eyes, capturing a unified image in a moment of time.

Instead of capturing a single image, the Lytro camera records 11 million light rays, which translate into light, colour and depth in the viewfinder's range. A powerful processor, placed behind the viewing screen, embeds that information into what Lytro developers call a "living image."

► The red Lytro camera, centre, has twice the 8GB storage capacity of the blue and black models flanking it but costs $100 US more than the others' $399 US price.

Whoever is looking at the picture can refocus elements within that image to highlight whatever they want to see. Coming soon is the ability to view in 3-D.

Lytro is taking pre-orders on the device for $399 US, with shipping promised in early 2012. Canadians need to be patient, because orders can only come from within the United States.

Blue and black models come with 8GB of storage, enough for 350 images. For $100 US more, buyers will get a red camera with 16GB of storage. The images use a proprietary file format that is not compatible with current photo-manipulation software.

Pension plan wants Yahoo

► CPPIB would take minority stake with Microsoft the major partner

The investment wing of Canada's pension plan is reported to be involved in a group including Microsoft that is planning to take a shot at buying troubled Internet portal and search engine company Yahoo, sources told the Wall Street Journal.

If the Canada Pension Plan Investment Board gets involved it would be part of the biggest deal in the fund's history.

Yahoo has a current market capitalization of about $20 billion US. Yahoo famously rejected a $47.5-billion US bid by Microsoft in 2008, and after Microsoft walked away Yahoo shares began a long decline to half their value.

Last week Microsoft bought Internet voice and video conferencing firm Skype for $8.5 billion US. The CPPIB was a major investor in Skype and made $1.09 billion when it was sold. THE CANADIAN PRESS

LIONS AND TIGERS AND ARAB RULERS

THE METRO LIST

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO

Is it just me, or does the world get weirder by the week?

Consider the following evidence, as we assemble this week's zeitgeist, item by item:

1 Moammar Gadhafi: It's been a bad year for jihadists and despots: Mubarak, bin Laden and now the terrorist clown (or is that clown terrorist?) gets his.

2 Bicoastal bliss: The feds launch a lot of boats with $35 billion. Stephen Harper could get elected king this morning, at least in Vancouver and Halifax, where the ship-building industries are enjoying an instant revival. We's the bys what build the boats. Buy Canadian, eh?

3 Shark-fin ban: Toronto city council votes Monday on a motion to ban the sale of shark fins and shark-fin soup. Did you know that 73 million sharks a year are killed for their fins and that some species have been reduced by 90 per cent? Save the sharks! Switch to tomato bisque!

4 Chinese toddler: A poor little two-year-old girl was run over — twice — by some jerks, and more than a dozen people walked around her as she lay screaming for nearly 10 minutes. It's causing a lot of hand-wringing in China. Let's just hope that when they stop wringing, they actually start helping people who need a hand.

5 Jungle book: The other unhappy story everyone's talking about is the guy who let all his lions and tigers loose in Ohio and then killed himself. It turned into a bad day for the whole menagerie as state deputies turned into big-game hunters, and now most of the lions, tigers and, oh my, bears are dead. At last report, there was one lone monkey out there. My advice: don't monkey around. Get out of Ohio.

6 Torture enablers are people too: George W. Bush comes to Metro Vancouver Friday, and the Occupy people want him arrested for war crimes. Hail (and rocks and rotten tomatoes) to the Chief.

7 True blue: Steven Slater, the guy who escaped from his job as a Jet Blue flight attendant — literally — down the emergency chute, avoids hard time. But has to pay the airline back for damaging their chute: $831.25 bucks a month. And he thought life was tedious before. But then there's the book tour to look forward to.

8 BieberWatch: Justin Bieber's tour stops in Peru, the home of his doppelganger, Alejandro Avilez Kamp, the Peruvian Justin Bieber. Geez, there are two of them.

Worth Mentioning

Doctors sometimes call the anesthesia drug by its nickname — milk of amnesia. Patients are calling it the "Michael Jackson drug."

Ever since propofol was blamed in the singer's death, patients who seldom asked or cared about what kind of sedation they were getting are suddenly peppering their doctors with questions about the potent drug.

"You won't believe how many people ... ask me: 'Are you going to give me the Michael Jackson drug?'" said Dr. H.A. Tillmann Hein, president of the Texas Society of Anesthesiologists.

While some initially balk at going under, fearing they will end up like Jackson, they come around after Hein explains that propofol, widely used for surgeries and other procedures for more than 20 years, is safe when used by a trained professional.

Propofol gained notoriety in 2009 after an autopsy found Jackson died of an overdose. Prosecutors have accused his personal physician, Dr. Conrad Murray, of giving the 50-year-old pop icon a lethal dose at the singer's rented Los Angeles mansion. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Just like that, a planet is born

Astronomers have captured the first direct image of a planet being born.

Adam Kraus, of the University of Hawaii's Institute for Astronomy, said the planet is being formed out of dust and gas circling a two-million-year-old star about 450 light years from Earth.

The planet itself, based on scientific models of how planets form, is estimated to have started taking shape about 50,000 to 100,000 years ago.

Synopsis

The new film is a prequel to the first films and follows the template set by the first two movies. Set in the VHS era of 1988, recurring characters Katie and Kristi Rey are little girls living with their mother (Lauren Bittner) and her boyfriend (Christopher Nicholas Smith), a wedding video editor. When they start hearing strange sounds in their new house, he sets up video cameras to find out what's keeping them up at night. Is the boyfriend obsessed or is the house possessed?

Horror hat trick

Paranormal Activity franchise should be getting old, but the third instalment still offers plenty of scares Film a shining example of 'found footage' genre

Richard: Mark, I have to say, I'm a bit of a sucker for things that go bump in the night and even though the Paranormal Activity series should be a little long in the tooth by now, it still made me jump. Are you as big a fraidy cat as I am?

Mark: I usually pop a Xanax before I see a horror film so I can better appreciate the movie for its technical merits. But I didn't for this one. And yes, the movie did frighten me, but only in the last 15 minutes, which were terrific. I found it a bit too long getting going and had a bit too much dark humour to create that air of dread right off the top. The first two installments of the franchise really creeped me out; this one is better made, but didn't give me the punch until the end.

RC: This one is 99 per cent anticipation, one per cent payoff, but the one per cent is pretty good. I think the low-fi feel of the movies — the picture really does look like home video most of the time — combined with really natural performances from unknown actors make the Paranormal Activity movies feel like real "found footage" movies. Most movies of the genre are a little too slick. These aren't. There's no music, no stars and it feels like you're watching something that could be real ... almost.

MB: Yes, and that's not easy. It takes real filmmaking talent to look this artless. One thing I love about the series, and this movie in particular, is how much of the plot takes place at the edges of the screen. You really have to pay attention to see what's really happening in the frame. And the static takes almost feel like some European art film, although the technical innovation of the oscillator-cam in this film is inspired. I was also pleased that the movie had a backstory and plot, although, cleverly, you don't realize it until the movie is done.

RC: This one is a prequel, featuring the recurring characters Katie and Kristi Rey as creepy little kids. Not sure what's next though ... maybe Paranormal Activity in Outer Space?

MB: Well, before the screening, we were warned that to prevent privacy, the theatre would be continuously scanned using night vision technology. Paranormal Activity 4, anyone?

See it twice 🌐🌐🌐🌐 | See it now 🌐🌐🌐 | Worth watching 🌐🌐 | Yawn 🌐 | Don't bother 🌐

Johnny English Reborn

Genre: Comedy
Director: Oliver Parker
Stars: Rowan Atkinson, Rosamund Pike

🌐🌐 You can be excused for questioning the need to resurrect Rowan Atkinson's James Bond spoof eight years after we all roundly ignored the original. The sequel still relies on bad puns and sight gags to hold the attention of its audience (mostly pre-pubescent boys). But as far as movies with bad puns and sight gags go, this one is pretty good. Thank Atkinson for that, as he still has the ability to make this character loveable while mugging for the camera.

The Three Musketeers

Genre: Action
Director: Paul W.S. Anderson
Stars: Logan Lerman, Milla Jovovich, Orlando Bloom

🌐🌐 The first in what appears to be a planned franchise of films, this steampunk-influenced take on Alexander Dumas' enduring classic weaves a convoluted plot without offering much in the way of resolution. What saves the film from total disaster is a crack-supporting cast led by Milla Jovovich and Christoph Walz who get equal screen time as the titular heroes. Hard to follow, the imaginative action scenes and playful support characters save this film from total disaster.

Down the Road Again

Genre: Drama
Director: Donald Shebib
Stars: Doug McGrath, Kathleen Robertson, Anthony Lemke

🌐🌐 It would be easy enough to dismiss Don Shebib's sequel to his landmark 1970 'Canadian New Wave' classic Goin' Down the Road as hogwash. With most of its original living cast intact, this belated followup sees Pete (Doug McGrath), now a retired postie in Vancouver, charged with ushering the ashes of his old pal Joey (played in the original by the late Paul Bradley) all the way to the East Coast in the same battered car they put miles on in the first film. If you think driving a 50-year-old heap across the country without hiccup is implausible, wait until you see the many maudlin plot twists that rise up along the route. No matter, Road works, mainly because Shebib is honest and heartfelt about giving his heroes, living and dead, some closure in their lives. It's a film that might make the cynic in you cringe, while the sentimentalist in you wipes away tears.

Dirty Girl

Genre: Drama
Director: Abe Sylvia
Stars: Juno Temple, Jeremy Dozier, Milla Jovovich

🌐 Dirty Girl plays like a low budget, raunchy John Hughes comedy. Juno Temple plays the school floozy who goes on a road trip with an overweight, gay classmate (Jeremy Dozier). The movie deals with real issues — rebellion, abandonment and coming out of the closet — but for every moment that feels authentic there are two more that feel forced. But Temple rises above it all with bluster that covers real vulnerability. 🌐 RICHARD CROUSE

Weibo's War

Genre: Documentary
Director: David York

🌐🌐 Eco-terrorist Wiebo Ludwig's clashes with the oil and gas industry in Alberta have been well documented in the media, but this doc goes a long way to giving Ludwig's side of the story. While it's easy to sympathize with concerns over the pollution of the air and water table around his family, Ludwig's knack for playing the victim and his flagrant obscuring of the truth ensures most viewers will leave unconvinced of his innocence. 🌐 IAN GORMELY

The Women on the 6th Floor

Genre: Comedy
Director: Philippe Le Guay
Stars: Fabrice Luchini, Sandrine Kiberlain

🌐🌐 A saucy French-Spanish farce, The Women on the 6th Floor follows the well-worn story pathway about relationships between bosses and servants, but does so with a sense of genuine joy that mostly makes up for any lack of originality. 🌐 TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

A Johnny, Hunter 'love affair'

► Johnny Depp shares details of the unique bond he shared with the late writer Hunter S. Thompson

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Johnny Depp has been working to bring Hunter S. Thompson's The Rum Diary to the screen since shortly after the two of them discovered the manuscript for the book in Thompson's attic. With the film finally hitting theatres, Depp shares with Metro, in his own words, some of his memories of his close friendship with the late author.

Meeting Hunter for the first time

It was around Christmas time of 1994. I was in Aspen, and this friend of mine said, 'You should come to the Woody Creek Tavern.

I'll have Hunter come down if you want to meet him.' Somewhere around midnight the front door opened and all I could see initially were sparks — just sparks shooting everywhere, and then people jumping for cover. You could hear this sort of muffled, 'Out of my way, you bastards!' The sea parted, and the sparks stopped and he arrived right in front of me, and then this southern gentleman came over and said, 'My name's Hunter, how do you do?' And that was it. From that second on, if we were apart we were on the phone constantly. It was a love affair, a major love affair that hung around until he made his exit."

On the road with Hunter

► The Rum Diary marks Depp's second on-screen appearance as an alter ego of Hunter S. Thompson.

We were on a book tour, and he wanted me to go on the road with him as his road manager and as his head of security. He would refer to me as Ray, his head of security. So he'd say, 'I'd like you to meet Ray, my head of security.' And they were like, 'That's Johnny Depp.' And he'd go, 'No! His name is Ray.' And he just stayed with that. We ended up in San Francisco because his back went out on him on the tour. So I was essentially locked in a hotel room with him, in a suite with Hunter — just me and him for five straight days.

And so all the stuff you read about in Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas and saving the shrimp cocktails, all that stuff? All true.

Learning of Hunter's suicide

"I was here, in Los Angeles. If you knew Hunter — if you really spent time with him and you knew how he negotiated life and dictated the way he was going to live his life — you knew he wasn't going to be the guy who just sort of slipped off the chair and went away. You knew it was going to be self-inflicted. I wasn't particularly shocked, because you knew it would happen one day. But then you start cursing the bastard, thinking, Come on, man. One last phone call? Maybe some hideous practical joke before you do it?

But he did actually ultimately have the best practical joke of all, because his last wish was to be blown out of a giant cannon in his back yard. Now, there are no giant cannons of that size. He wanted 150 feet of cannon, and then I found out that the Statue of Liberty was 151 feet tall, and I thought he'd really hate me if it were any smaller than the Statue of Liberty. So we changed the plans and we built it up to 153 feet tall. We broke the records then. The great joke is that we were all forced to focus on something else as opposed to focusing on the loss of a great, great friend. Now it was a question of how do we shoot the bastard into the stratosphere legally and get away with it?"

Who was the Bard?

► Director Roland Emmerich takes on the literary establishment with his new film that questions whether Shakespeare really wrote all those plays ion about the identity of Shakespeare?

I side with the artists and writers. I side with Mark Ryland, Derek Jacobi, Walt Whitman, Henry James, Sigmund Freud, Charlie Chaplin, Orson Welles — all these people believed that the man from Stratford didn't write it.

The problem with this whole thing, anyway, is there's the literary establishment — the educators, the professors, the school teachers and all these people who write books about the man from Stratford.

They've devoted their whole lives, and now the Master of Disaster comes along and makes this movie — maybe I'm the antichrist, we don't know yet. They're thinking I am. But whatever it is, they have to bedevil me, they have to kind of think this is all nonsense, but it isn't. And it's an uphill battle, I knew that going in.

What made you want to take on this subject?

The orthodox scholars have a huge problem with the work of Shakespeare. How do they want to explain that? How can a commoner write only about the point of view of an aristocrat? Why is there so much poetry? It's very hard to believe that it was written by a guy who was a younger man who was just coming to London as a commoner. The whole thing just doesn't make sense. We wanted to just show another version of it, just an alternate history.

The last time we spoke, you were casting this film. How ► Anonymous presents the controversial theory that it was the Earl of Oxford who penned Shakespeare's plays.

is it to show the finished product to the world?

It's a little nerve-wracking, but it's always nerve-wracking whenever you make a movie. You have to show it, you know? I actually do movies mainly because I want to see them, but films are so expensive, you have to show them to people. Lots of people!

And that's always nerve-wracking for me because I'm just afraid that they'll throw tomatoes at me or something.

It's not your usual subject matter.

Yeah, it was very risky to make, because boy if I would f— that one up, then people would say, "Oh, my God. Do we need that?" But I think we did a pretty good job, so hopefully the people will not say that.

But it was just a pleasure to work with these incredible actors. I had on this film the freedom to cast whoever I wanted, and because of that it was really a joy to do it. Also, it was the first movie I did in Germany in 20 years. I chose Germany because I felt most at home there and I know a lot of people there and I have a great group, which could be all Germans because I speak German.

How did the mostly English cast feel about that?

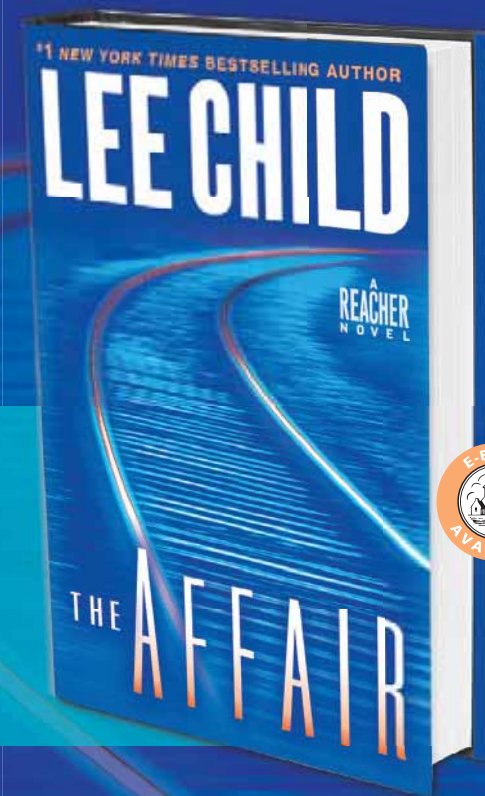

They thought we were kind of like Hobbits who speak in their secret language, you know?

Do you have your own opin-

Dogs days gone 'darker'

► American version of Wilfred promises to stay dour

► Jason Gann, left, stars alongside Elijah Wood in Wilfred

IAN JOHNSTON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Ten years on, TV viewers still can't seem to get enough of actor Jason Gann in a floppy dog suit.

Which is just fine with the Aussie star of Wilfred, a short film that became an Australian TV series, only to be reinvented recently as an American sitcom.

"It's not like I've been wearing the suit for all 10 years. There have been long gaps," laughs Gann, who was in Toronto Wednesday to promote Wilfred's debut on the new FX-Canada.

"But I could easily do it another 10 years. As long as people find the character funny and interesting."

In its American incarnation, Wilfred centres on a suicidal lawyer (Elijah Wood) who meets a comely neighbour and her dog ► Audiences will get a sneak peek at Wilfred Monday at 10 p.m. (ET) on Citytv, followed by its FX-Canada premiere Oct. 31 at 11 p.m. (ET).

Air time

Wilfred (Gann). Except Ryan sees Wilfred as an angry, pot-smoking man in a shabby dog suit. What ensue are odd adventures in which Wilfred shows Ryan how to overcome his fears and embrace life.

Gann — who also co-created the series — says fans of the original Aussie version shouldn't worry that the show has been sanitized for North American audiences.

"I never saw the two versions as all that different. To me, it just feels like the show and the character have evolved."

The American version has already proven a hit, with a second season already confirmed.

"When I first read it, I laughed my ass off," says American actress Fiona Gubelmann, who plays Wilfred's owner Jenna.

"There are so many lines you just don't forget easily."

She says the most difficult thing is keeping a straight face during filming with a man-sized dog in your ear.

ANNE BRODIE

Glenn Gould, Emily Carr, Norman Bethune, Pierre Trudeau and L.M. Montgomery have something in common.

They are extraordinary Canadians.

Canada is a land of pioneering, spirited and determined citizens; we are world class artists, scientists, doctors, statesmen, activists, writers, entrepreneurs, philanthropists and, of course, comedians.

Extraordinary Canadians shape our national identity and international reputation as a humane, peaceful nation of progressive thinkers.

Producer Kenneth Hirsch celebrates that ideal in a Citytv series, based on Penguin Canada's acclaimed biography collection Extraordinary Canadians.

Each episode features a renowned author presenting one of 12 figures who made a difference, since the earliest days of Canada's nationhood.

The 12-part series Extraordinary Canadians, introduced by John Ralston Saul and narrated by Holly O'Brien, will air Sundays beginning this weekend on Citytv at 8.30 p.m. ET/PT and repeat on

The Biography Channel, Saturdays at 7:30 p.m. ET/PT, premiering Saturday, Oct. 29.

It will debut in Mandarin, Hindi and Italian on OMNI Television in spring 2012.

See if you can match up who each well-known Canadian author profiles on the series

Metronomy is no misnomer

► After winning the U.K. equivalent of a Grammy, they haven't missed a beat in dealing with their new fame ► Remain critical of the music press

METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

Three albums in and Metronomy, the electro-pop quartet based in Brighton, England, are only now getting name recognition in the U.S., Canada and in their native country. The second part is especially odd, because earlier this year they received a Mercury Prize nomination (the U.K. equivalent to a Grammy) for their latest album, The English Riviera. But frontman and Metronomy mastermind Joseph Mount is

Radio nowhere

Mount discussed with his opinion on how U.K. radio stations determine the success of bands.

► Quote "There's this radio station in England, BBC Radio One, that has this iron grip on the success of bands. 6 Music started as this alternative to Radio One, but after a while it ended up being the same ... where it's in charge of breaking bands and if you are on 6 Music, then you are more likely to get on Radio One. They've got playlists like Radio One. ... So they get behind new bands. ... It's all corrupt."

► Joseph Mount is the frontman for Metronomy.

philosophical about the newfound fame.

"Certainly with the English music press, you sometimes need to prove your worth," he says. "Some bands get this massive hype from the beginning, and then other bands just have to stick at it until people realize you're not going to just disappear. I guess it just feels like it's the right time for people to feel like they can get behind it a bit more."

All the adoration may also be due to the fact that Mount and his bandmates have put together a palatable pop album that fuses Metronomy's characteristically clicky synths with danceable beats and singable melodies. Mount is a natural tinkerer, having made the band's last two albums largely on his own.

"They were all home recorded," he says of the first two albums. "I just thought at that point maybe it would've been a strange decision to keep making it that way," he says, adding that two new bandmates also allowed for an expansion of range.

"You go on the stage and you're kind of aware of what kinds of songs you could add to the set to make it a bit more dynamic," Mount says. "But when it comes down to it, I'm kind of stuck in this way of writing since the beginning — which is just like, sitting down alone in a room with a computer."

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

I'm working my way through Retromania by Simon Reynolds, a book that explores why we seem so fascinated with fetishizing music of the recent past.

Retro can be loosely defined as everything old is new again. Anything can be retro: fashion, art, advertising, movies, TV and, of course, music.

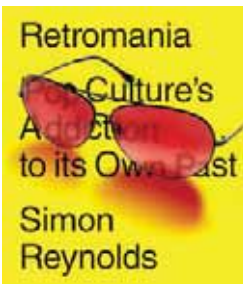

Reynolds points out that for the first time in human history, we've never been this obsessed with our own immediate past. Retro isn't some antiquarian pursuit. We're nostalgic for things within recent living memory.

We still worship the music of the 60s. The rock giants of the 70s — Zeppelin, the Stones — are as big as they ever were. Clubs still hold Retro 80s nights and acts like OMD and Spandau Ballet are on the road again. Lately, it's been all about celebrating the grunge era of the 90s with reunions (Soundgarden), documentaries (Pearl Jam) and commemorative CD reissues (Nirvana, U2).

Meanwhile, current acts have become very successful by recycling the past. I love the White Stripes, but hasn't Jack White just put a fresher garage-rock spin on the blues? The Strokes, Franz Ferdinand and Interpol are New Wave and post-punk with new coats of paint. Isn't Lady Gaga just Madonna 2.0? And while Adele, Amy and Duffy have made brilliant records, they sound like something transported ahead from 1966.

And think about this: give me a single new sound/genre that will endure beyond the first years of the 21st century? There have been a few — grime, dubstep, maybe whatever Kanye is doing — but I'm not sure we'll be wistful about this music ten years from now. A big part of why we keep recycling the music of the old innovators is because of technology. With the Internet, it's never been easier to access the past. And because so much of our immediate musical past has been preserved through YouTube, iTunes and millions of fan websites, it's easier to mine it for ideas and influences. That's great.

"A big part of why we keep recycling the music of the old innovators is because of technology."

But what happens when we run out of the past? Do we just start over? Or has as this music been around long enough that it's become an artifact and can now only feed on itself? Or will someone have come along to push popular music forward?

These are all extremely big questions. Something to think about the next time you hear about the next big reunion tour.

Twilight star takes big bite out of gay rumours in media

► Kellan Lutz tells publication that straight men generally make for bad housemates because they're messy

► Kellan

Twilight hunk Kellan Lutz doesn't mind the gay rumors going around about him — and he insists he knows where they come from.

"I don't Google myself, but I've heard that people think I'm gay. I've heard it all," he tells the Advocate.

"See, I don't really go after girls. Most of the girlfriends I've had have come after me. So it's really funny when girls get offended because I don't hit on them.

They will transform their insecurity into, 'Oh, that makes sense, because I heard you're into guys and have a boyfriend.' I'm like, 'Seriously? That's your tactic to get me to like you?'

There will always be rumors, but I know who I am."

Lutz also claims that he'd rather live with gay men than straight men.

"They're the cleanest, and they just take care of stuff," he explains.

"Straight guys are just kids who don't pick up after themselves."

Fall for this orange tippie

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA

You have to love Europeans and their ritual of pre-dinner drinks that makes booze a natural companion to their dining culture.

They do it best in Italy. Order a glass of appealingly bitter Campari ($20.99 - $27.49) and soda at any resto and you'll get a nod from your waiter that he knows you know how to drink Italian.

One of my favourite Italian cities to imbibe in is Verona in the province of Veneto. It's surrounded by the wine regions of Valpolicella, Bardolino and Soave, and the popular sparkling wine Prosecco is made nearby.

The Veronese are crazy for The Spritz: A mix of two ounces of Campari's little (and less bitter) brother Aperol ($21.99 - $25.98) with an equal part Prosecco and a dash of sparkling water.

Served over ice in a wine glass and garnished with a slice of orange, it's an appetite enhancing refresher. Thanks to its bright orange colour, it's also an appropriate tippie for fall. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

BRUINS	LEAFS

Zdeno Chara, Milan Lucic and Tyler Seguin had a goal and two assists each and the Boston Bruins handed the Toronto Maple Leafs their first regulation loss, 6-2 on Thursday night.

The Stanley Cup champions scored two power-play goals, matching their total in the first six games of the season, and won for the second time in five games. It was just the second time in 41 regular-season games that they scored twice with a man advantage.

David Steckel gave Toronto (4-1-1) the lead 7:29 into the game before the Bruins (3-4) scored three times in less than eight minutes to take a 3-1 lead after the first period. Nathan Horton and Chara scored on power plays and Chris Kelly connected with 2:11 left in the period. Lucic, Patrice Bergeron and Seguin scored in the third.

Toronto's Mikhail Grabovski finished the scoring.

The Bruins, who had 11 goals in their first six games, rebounded from an undisciplined performance in a 4-1 loss to Carolina on Tuesday night. Rich Peverley's goal with 9:01 left had cut Carolina's lead to 2-1 before Boston lost its momentum by taking several ill-advised penalties.

Toronto played one night after a 4-3 shootout victory over the Winnipeg Jets in which Phil Kessel, a former Bruin, had a goal and two assists to increase his NHL-leading totals to seven goals and 12 points. He was scoreless Thursday. Seguin was taken with the second pick of last year's draft obtained in the trade for Kessel.

Steckel started the scoring with his first goal of the season on a 30-foot shot from the slot that deflected off the left leg of goalie Tim Thomas as he lay on his back.

Barely three minutes later, at 10:32 of the first period, the Bruins tied it on Horton's second goal after backup goalie Jonas Gustavsson, playing for the first time this season, stopped Chara's 50-foot shot but left the rebound for Horton to put in the net on a power play.

Chara scored his first goal on another power play, at 16:05, on a pass from the blue-line from defenceman Andrew Ference, who tied his career high with three assists.

Less than two minutes later, at 17:49, Ference assisted on Kelly's second goal, starting the play with a pass to Lucic, who skated up the left side and across the goal line. He then passed it in front of the net where it bounced before Kelly lifted a backhand over Gustavsson.

Rangers rally in 9th to tie series

- Hamilton, Young hit sacrifice flies to give Texas win
- Rangers host next three games starting Saturday

MATT SLOCUM/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Down to their last three outs, and in danger of dropping into a serious World Series deficit, the Texas Rangers rallied against St. Louis' vaunted bullpen for a 2-1 victory Thursday night.

For the second straight night, Cardinals pinch-hitter Allen Craig greeted reliever Alexi Ogando with a go-ahead single. This time, Craig did it in the seventh. In Game 1, his hit in the sixth sent the Cards to a 3-2 win.

The Rangers, however, were not done quite yet.

Now, after a travel day, they will host Game 3 on Saturday night. Matt Harrison is set to start for the Rangers against Kyle Lohse.

The Cardinals' Jaime Garcia and the Rangers' Colby Lewis both pitched two-hit ball through six innings, and Texas shortstop Elvis Andrus saved a run with an outstanding defensive play.

A night after Chris Carpenter led the Cardinals to a 3-2 win in the opener, Garcia retired his first nine batters and didn't allow a ball out of the infield. Using a sharp breaking ball, he allowed just three runners in the first six innings and only two singles. He struck out six and walked one, throwing 75 pitches.

► Ian Kinsler started a ninth-inning rally that pushed the Rangers past the Cardinals in Game 2 of the World Series.

Lewis struck out three and walked two through six innings, throwing 86 pitches. He allowed five runners, but none of them advanced past second base.

Garcia had been 0-2 with a 5.74 ERA in his first three post-season starts. Lewis has pitched better on the road than at home this year and was 1-1 with a 3.86 ERA, winning at Tampa Bay and losing at Detroit.

A night after a cold, rainy opener, it was slightly warmer with a game-time temperature of 10 C. Stan Musial, the Cardinals Hall of Famer who turns 91 next month, attended the game at Busch Stadium, hoping to watch St. Louis move halfway to its 11th championship and first since 2006.

Derek Holland goes for the Rangers in Game 4 on Sunday and Edwin Jackson for the Cardinals.

Plenty upside in Stamps QB decision

CFL EXTRA POINTS

DAN TOTH
TORONTO@METRONEWS.CA

John Hufnagel's decision to bench quarterback Henry Burris this week shocked the reigning CFL Most Outstanding Player, but it's the right move at the right time and almost every other coach wishes he had the luxury of such a tough choice.

Stamps backup Drew Tate has given every indication, despite limited action, that he's the real deal and ready to step into the starting role. If Hufnagel's hunch is right, Tate will be one of the top stories down the stretch and into the playoffs.

Fail, and Hufnagel's got one of the best QBs of this

"Burris would attract a handsome return in a trade (could any team need a QB more than Toronto?)" era fuming on the sidelines and waiting for a chance to redeem himself. What could be better?

The ideal scenario for Calgary is if Tate lights it up when he gets his chance, making the 36-year-old Burris and his salary in the $350,000 range expendable in the off-season. Burris would attract a handsome return in a trade (could any team need a QB more than Toronto?) allowing the Stamps to pad their Canadian talent with some Double Blue draft picks.

The Argos, after wasting a year and a half with the Cleo Lemon experiment, are now saddled with career backup Steven Jyles, who has shown only brief glimpses of potential in his half-dozen games running the offence.

Most outstanding finish: Has a quarterback ever won the Most Outstanding Player award after an 0-5 start to the season?

It could happen after B.C. Lions pivot Travis Lulay struggled early this year only to turn the season around with an eight-game winning streak and a guaranteed playoff berth. While Lulay floundered, head coach Wally Buono appeared destined for the firing line. Fast forward two months and the Lions are fighting for first in the West and Wally is an obvious candidate for coach of the year honours.

Saskatchewan riding Durant to the bitter end:

Question a coach's decision about the starting quarterback and you usually get the patented answer, "He gives us the best chance to win."

That holds true for Saskatchewan Roughriders head coach Ken Miller, who is starting quarterback Darian Durant Friday night in Calgary. The game means nothing to the Riders, who can't earn a playoff spot this season.

But why Durant? There are question marks about Durant's abilities after a disappointing season, and the man's got a broken bone in his foot. The Riders should be playing backups Ryan Dinwiddie and Cole Bergquist to choose a successor. Surely by now they know what Durant can do.

Is FIFA boss ready to clean up soccer?

UEFA leader Michel Platini believes FIFA President Sepp Blatter is "really motivated" to offer concrete reforms for cleaning up world football after a series of corruption scandals.

Blatter on Friday will announce the first stage of a wide-ranging reform plan he promised in June after a bribery case and wave of ethics allegations tarnished the image of football's world governing body.

"I get the impression that Mr. Blatter is really motivated to change some things," Platini told reporters before attending a two-day session of FIFA's executive committee. "We hope that what Blatter promised us this time becomes fact, and not just ideas."

Platini said Blatter had not yet shared details of his proposed reforms.

"I don't know exactly point by point, because it is his job to organize that," said the former France playing great, who is the leading candidate to succeed Blatter in 2015.

It was also unclear what legal authority Blatter or FIFA's ruling panel have to change governance rules, or if some reforms need approval by all 208 football nations.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Stand back from yourself. Try to see why you think and act in certain ways. It makes it easier to change.

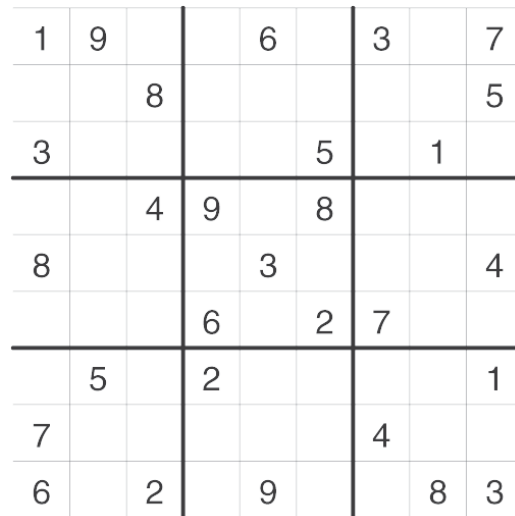

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Use your powers of persuasion if you want to get something done.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 You'll be in the mood to take a few risks today and there's a good chance that some will pay off.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 If you sit around waiting for other people to make the first move today, you won't get much done.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. For a change everyone seems to approve of what you are doing, which is nice. But don't let their praise go to your head. • SALLY BROMPTON
